Big Ben.

"Big Ben," so called after Sir Benjamin Hall, who was the first commissioner of works when the order for the clock was given, was cast in 1856 at Norton, near Stockton-on-Tees.

From the north of England this enormous bell, weighing 16 tons, was conveyed to London by sea, where it had, on a small scale, almost as adventurous a passage as the Egyptian obelisk which now graces the Thames embankment. Once or twice during the voyage, indeed, it was feared that it would send the vessel bearing it to the bottom of the ocean. Not very long after the clock had been placed in a temporary position at Westminster—on Oct. 24, 1857—and while it was being rung, as was customary for a short time at 1 o'clock on Saturdays, it was noticed that it had a cracked, uncertain sound.

On a minute examination with a lighted candle a crack was discovered to extend from the rim about half way up the side. The catastrophe to an instrument which cost £3,343 raised the question as to who was to pay for recasting it. The founders repudiated responsibility, declaring that too heavy a clapper—it weighed 13 cwt.—had been used. The authorities, however, placed on record that it was "porous, unhomogeneous, unsound and a defective casting."

Be that as it may, Big Ben was broken up and recast at a cost of £750. Its weight was 13 tons 10 cwt. 8 gr. 15 lb., its diameter 9 feet and its height outside 7 feet 6 inches. It was rung for the first time on Nov. 18, 1858.

Alas, in less than a year after this the new bell ceased to strike the hours, having become more seriously cracked than its predecessor. The crack, which was inside, was 8 inches in extent. For about three years afterward the hours were struck on the largest of the quarter bells. The experiment was then tried of turning the great bell round, so as to present a fresh place for the hammer or clapper to strike on. With a light hammer this experiment proved so far satisfactory that during the years that have elapsed the fissure does not seem to have increased, and it is possible when the wind is favorable to distinctly hear it in most of the suburbs booming out the midnight hour.—London Mail.

Lost Mines and Springs.

There is a tradition in New Mexico that many mines once freely worked have been lost. There is another tradition that many springs have also been lost, and it is understood that the losses of both mines and springs were brought about by the Indians. New Mexico is supposed once to have been much more attractive than it is now. The Pueblo Indians arose in revolt on the first full moon in August, 1680. When they had driven the Spaniards down into old Mexico, they set to work to change the conditions so that there should be little temptation to reconquer New Mexico.

This idea inspired the filling of mines which had been opened and worked during the former Spanish occupation. The Indians, with great care, destroyed all traces of many mines, it is said. This is not so surprising as what they did to the springs. It is tradition, and the statement is commonly accepted as historic truth, that in their labors to render the country as uninviting as possible these Indians suppressed numerous springs. Such results were accomplished in an ingenious manner. The Indians dug down and cleared away the dirt until they found the crevices of the rock through which the water came. They took the fibrous bark of a species of fir tree and tamped it into the crevices. As the material became water soaked it swelled until it plugged. Nothing remained but to throw back the dirt and to give to the surface the general arid appearance of the surrounding country. This was not a temporary expedient. It resulted, according to the present theory, in the permanent destruction of many sources of water.

To this day the appearance of slight moisture often stimulates a search for one of the missing springs. Occasionally these searches are successful. The earth is removed, the crevices are found, the bark is picked out and the water, after more than two centuries of being turned back, resumes its natural flow.—Topeka Capital.

Wise Man.

There is a saying of Chamfort which many serious minded people, under the pressure of care and work, would do well to lay to heart. "The most thoroughly wasted of all days is that on which one has not laughed." It has often been said that only they who take life with profound seriousness can be really humorous, for they alone perceive those fundamental contrasts which make humor possible.

Mr. Ford has had the country under lasting obligation by correcting the impression that Washington never laughed. Deeply serious as he was by nature, and retired and noncommunicative as he was in large companies, no man could appreciate and enjoy fun of any good kind more thoroughly than the great leader when with his intimates. It is true Emerson hated to laugh, but his radiant smile was better than laughter. Carlyle, on the contrary, was given to earth shaking laughter—a kind of Berserker laughter, not without undertones of pathos running through it. Lincoln's love of stories, both in the hearing and the telling, was a safety valve for one whose tremendous burdens fell on a temperament deeply tinged with sadness.—Outlook

More Like the Foot.

Canvasser—You are the head of the house, I presume?
Dixieyth—Your presumption is quite natural, but you've got another guess coming.
Canvasser—Beg pardon, but I don't quite catch your drift?
Dixieyth—Well, I have to foot the bills, and as my wife says I'm always kicking you can draw your own conclusions.—Chicago News.

The newly wedded couple step through the door of the future. They pass from the happy, thoughtless present into an avenue of possibilities. The future is what they make it—happy or miserable—success or failure—full of the love and brightness and joyfulness of mutual love and helpfulness, and healthy, rosy, relieving children, or tortured with pain and sickness and mutual fault-finding and dependence, and lacking the binding tie of healthy, happy offspring. A world depends upon the young wife. If she has taken proper care of herself and is healthy in a womanly way, the probabilities are all in favor of a happy home filled with the music of childish laughter. Too many young women neglect to take care of their womanly selves. They shrink from the distasteful "examinations" and "local treatment" upon which most physicians insist. There is no need for this.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription acts directly on the important and delicate organs concerned in wifehood and motherhood. It makes them strong and healthy. It allays inflammation, heals ulceration, soothes pain and gives the tortured nerves rest and tone. It prepares for wifehood and maternity. Taken during the expectant period, it banishes discomfort and makes the coming of baby easy and comparatively painless. It insures the new-comer's health and an ample supply of natural nourishment. Over 50,000 women have testified to its merits. Druggists who offer substitutes aim to get a few pennies extra profit.

Dr. Pierce's great book, "Common Sense Medical Advice," would prevent more than half the sickness in any family. It gives the best advice for curing common ailments without a doctor. It is all about anatomy and physiology and the origin of life, and is the most valuable, practical medical work ever printed. A free copy in paper covers sent for 21 one-cent stamps to pay cost of mailing only. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y. For cloth-bound, 31 stamps.

EASTERN ADVERTISING OFFICE 230 to 224 Temple Court, New York City.
S. Katz, Agent.INTERSTATE TRANSPORTATION COMMITTEE.

The Gulf and Interstate Transportation Committee, which consists of commissioners appointed by the Governors of the several States, purposes holding its second meeting in the near future at a time and place not yet definitely determined. The object of the meeting is to gather data and devise ways and means to prevent discrimination in rates by transportation companies. It is a conceded fact that, under present conditions, transportation companies can build up or tear down any commercial center at will and depreciate or enhance the value of large areas of country by discrimination in freight rates. A power so vast and far-reaching in extent should not be exercised by any private corporation, and all cities and all areas of our country should have an equitable and just freight and passenger rate, based upon the cost of service, with a fair remuneration to the transportation company upon the capital invested, not upon watered stocks and bonds.

The committee directs attention to the Texas and Pacific case, which grew out of discrimination against New Orleans shippers on that road in the interest of London and Liverpool shippers. The report of the Interstate Commission of 1896, page 8, gives the following statement of facts with reference to these discriminations.

On books, buttons, carpets, clothing and hosiery the domestic rate was $2.88 per 100 pounds, while the total through charge on the same articles from Liverpool to San Francisco, by way of New Orleans, was $1.07 per 100 pounds. Boots, shoes, cashmere, cigars, confectionary, cutlery, gloves, hats, caps, laces, linen goods, saddler's goods and woolen goods were carried from Liverpool, through New Orleans, to San Francisco for $1.07 per 100 pounds, though domestic goods of the same kind were charged $3.70 for the haul from New Orleans to San Francisco, over the same line of railway.

The Supreme Court of the United States, by a vote of six to three, decided that these discriminations were lawful. Chief Justice Fuller and Associate Justices Harlan and Brown, the dissenting Justices, held that such discriminations against American interests were not only unlawful but vicious. The interior States generally, but Nevada in particular, suffer from such unjust discriminations. About three times as much is charged for hauling a load of freight from points east of the Missouri river to Nevada as is charged for hauling a similar car from the same points through Nevada and over the mountains to San Francisco. If the Supreme Court by a vote of six to three, holds that such discrimination is legal, it is time that Congress passed an act making it illegal. One of the objects of the committee meeting is to awaken the public to a sense of the injustice of this discrimination so that Congress may be called upon to prevent it by law. This State is entitled to seven representatives at the meeting and if the citizens of the several towns along the railroad and of the agricultural valleys will select one or more from each locality the Governor will, upon being notified of their choice, commission them to attend the meeting and represent the State.

A PETITION to President McKinley protesting against the appointment of Attorney-General McKenna as Supreme Court Justice, has been signed by two federal court judges and many attorneys who allege that McKenna is not qualified by natural gifts or learning or decision of character to be a Justice.

PERU is the first of the South American countries to open negotiations with the United States for a reciprocity treaty under the provisions of the Dingley law. Peru wants reciprocal concessions on wines and brandies, hides, sugar, wool, cotton goods and many native products.

It is now feared that the serious condition of the health of the President's mother may delay the regular program at the opening of Congress on next Monday. It has been customary for the President to be at Washington at the opening of Congress.

THE Government has determined to qualify as a bidder at the sale of the Union Pacific railroad on December 16th in case the reorganization committee fails to guarantee the Government a fair figure for its interest, amounting to $13,000,000.

THE Hawaiian annexation treaty occupies the first place on the Senate's executive calendar. Senator Gray, of the Foreign Relations Committee, says there will be considerable delay in disposing of the treaty. The opponents will make a hard fight against it.

PRINCE BISMARCK, commenting upon the alleged intention of the United States to enforce the Monroe Doctrine regarding Hayti, says it is a political necessity to oppose this American arrogance often and emphatically.

MARTIN THORN, who was convicted of the murder of Guldensuppe, was sentenced yesterday in New York State to be electrocuted during the week beginning January 10, 1898.

AN OBJECT LESSON.

The Republican Press in Need of a Compound Interest Table.

EDITOR JOURNAL: The San Francisco Chronicle in commenting on our favorable trade balance says: "R. G. Dan & Co. estimate that the excess of exports over imports for the first five months of the present fiscal year will reach $225,000,000. If this rate of excess is maintained for December, the first half of the fiscal year will show a so-called favorable trade balance of $270,000,000. During the fiscal year 1896-97 the balance in our favor amounted to $286,270,644. The two amounts, added together, would make a total balance in our favor of $556,000,000 for the eighteen months beginning July 1, 1896 and ending December 31, 1897.

During this period gold imports have virtually ceased. The excess of exports over imports of gold for the first ten months of the present year was $8,486,720. In the last half of 1896 gold manifested a tendency to flow in this direction, but the net gains of the metal for the period of eighteen months embraced in the above calculations are not likely to be more than twenty-four or twenty-five millions. If this amount is deducted from the $556,000,000, of favorable balance, it will still leave over $525,000,000, the greater portion of which may be assumed to represent the surrender of American railroad, industrial and other securities."

Mr. Editor, that $525,000,000 trade balance, which the Chronicle assumes is mostly used in buying up American securities held abroad is not sufficient to pay the interest and dividends on their American investments. The aliens hold securities against the people and corporations in the United States estimated at ten billion dollars. Any college professor knows that this amount at four per cent yearly interest would in eighteen months earn $600,000,000, so, in place of buying American securities with our favorable trade balance we actually lack $75,000,000 of paying the interest which has probably been settled by the aliens getting that amount in more bonds.

John Bull and Rothschilds know that as long as they can maintain the gold standard it is much better for them to have a mortgage on the planet than to own it, and as long as Uncle Sam allows Rothschilds to dictate his financial policy just so long will Uncle Sam be in arrears for interest which he will continuously have to settle with more bonds. No trade balance can be large enough to pay the interest. The editor of the Chronicle should take a few lessons in percentage if he expects to discover what is becoming of our favorable trade balance. FARMER.

WEATHER BULLETIN

(Copyright, 1897, by W. T. Foster)

ST JOSEPH, Mo. Dec. 4.—My last bulletin gave forecasts of the storm wave to cross the continent from the 4th to 8th and 11th to 14th.

The next disturbance will reach the Pacific coast about Dec. 15th, cross west of Rockies country by the close of the 18th, the great central valleys the 17th to 19th, the Eastern States 20th.

The warm wave will cross the west of the Rockies country about Dec. 15th, great central valleys the 17th, Eastern States Dec. 19th. The cool wave will cross the west of the Rockies country about Dec. 18th, great central valleys 20th, eastern States the 21st.

Temperature of the week ending December 18th will average below normal east of the Rockies and above on the Pacific slope. Most rain and snow of the month will occur not far from 18th.

Not far 20th a severe cold wave will cross the continent affecting most of the country east of the Rockies. It will be of short duration.

The last week in December will be generally dry.

Removal Sale.

Mr. R. E. Queen having become the owner of the Chambers building occupied by me as a dry goods store, has concluded to make important changes in the building which necessitates my moving temporarily to some other place. Preparatory to moving I must reduce my stock of dry goods and will therefore sell at a great reduction my entire stock consisting of Dry Goods of all qualities in latest styles, Ladies and Childrens Jackets, Capes in cloth and plush, Blankets, Flannels, Ladies cloth, Lace Curtains, Bedspreads, Ladies and Childrens underwear and hundreds of articles of fancy goods. The reduction is sweeping and customers will be saving on all purchases. S. EMERICH.

AMERICAN TOOLS ABROAD.

Purchasers Found For Them Nowdays Throughout the World.

American tools are sold all over the world. The New York representative of an American tool manufacturing establishment when asked where American tools were sent run over the export orders received that day. They included orders from Hungary, Austria, Germany, France, England, South Africa and South America. There were altogether about 20 orders, and from some of the countries named there were two or three orders. The export orders of the previous day included orders from Russia, Australia and New Zealand, and these were not unusual orders, but such as are constantly received. In the shipping room at that moment stood cases marked for Java, for Ecuador and for Australia.

Many of these orders are small. In some cases there were orders for a single tool, or for two or three; for some orders of half a dozen or two or three dozen to supply orders or to keep lines filled. These small orders are mostly from European countries, with which communication is nowadays quick and convenient. European merchants order these things just about as merchants in other cities in this country would. It costs no more to send to London than it does to Chicago, and it is as easy to send to Berlin as it is to Paterson.

The characteristics that commend these American tools to their foreign purchasers are the same that mark American machines and implements generally—lightness, fine finish and perfect adaptability to their several uses. The exports of American tools to all parts of the world are steadily increasing.—New York Sun.

Bad Story Telling.

If Oscar Wilde's assumption were to be taken seriously, that all fiction is lying, it might account for much that affects readers, since the lack of morale affects the intellect, and what is done without conscience is apt to be done badly. Of course all fiction is not lying, as all killing is not murder, but it is a sad fact that many writers of novels and short stories seem to have left their consciences and much of their brains behind when they go forth to work—as if these belongings might safely remain in seclusion, with the dress coat and the white tie, to be brought out only for special occasions. Artemus Ward once remarked that he had a giant mind, but did not have it with him, and that (or the latter half of it) is apt to be the case with any of us when we are careless. True, even good Homer sometimes nodded, but this affords no example for us who are not Homers. To come to our tasks otherwise than with all our wits about us and invite public attention to the chance "oozings of our brains" is as if one should issue from his apartments unshorn and half clad or enter upon the busy haunts of men without money in his pocket.—Frederic M. Bird in Lippincott's.

Leather and Kerosene.

There is one use of kerosene which is seldom mentioned. It often happens that when a heavy shoe or boot has been wet it hardens and draws so that it hurts the foot. If the shoe is put on and the leather thoroughly wet with kerosene, the stiffness will disappear and the leather become pliable, adapting itself to the foot. If oiled while wet, the leather retains its softness a longer time. The kerosene does not injure the leather at all.

At the beginning of this century a most peculiar cholera remedy was in use in Persia. It consisted in wadding up a leaf from the Koran and forcing it down the patient's throat.

The medical department of the queen's household costs $2,700 yearly and comprises 24 persons.

A BEE'S RESTLESS LIFE.

It Begins Work When Three Days Old and Dies at Forty-five.

G. W. Reynolds of Los Angeles, one of the oldest traveling men in the United States, has a ranch of which he enjoys telling even more than he does of the experiences through which he has passed during his half century upon the road. The ranch is near San Diego, Cal. The chief product is honey. This product is gained from two apiaries, which Mr. Reynolds visits every time his business permits him to go to southern California.

"In my apiaries, which are cared for by my son," said he, "there are 140 stand of bees. The honey season lasts from April to July. Last season my bees yielded 40,000 pounds of honey, which sells in that country in bulk lots at 4 cents a pound. Two of the hives gave over 500 pounds each. For ten years I have been interested in bees in a small way, and I take greater interest in them every year. A hive or stand of bees is worth $2.50. In it are the queen, the drones and the workers, a total population of from 20,000 to 25,000 bees.

"This very good sized colony," he continued, "resides in a hive or wooden box. In the hive are a dozen frames 18 by 7 inches. In these the bees make or deposit the honey, a foundation of wax having been first placed in each frame by the beekeeper, so that the bees may have something to build upon. The honey is taken out of the frames every other week during the honey season. While doing so there is little need of protecting the hands. The bees seem to be most inclined to sting one in the face. So as a precaution, the man who is removing the honey from the hives wears a straw hat, from the brim of which is hung a silk veil, like they have to do up in the Klondike country to ward off the summer mosquitoes.

"The queen is an absolute monarch within her dominions. She is the undisputed boss of the job. An ordinary bee lives during the working season only 45 days. Young ones are being hatched out all the time. A bee goes to work at the tender age of 8 days and hustles like a veteran for 42 days. Then it is just naturally all tired out, I suppose, for it dies. The queen lives longer, and when a young queen comes into existence in the hive she drives the old queen out. Her loyal subjects follow her in her banishment, and that is what makes the swarms.

"In southern California the bees make water white honey when the black sage is in blossom. When the white sage is flowering, the honey has an amber tinge. In winter the bees make no honey. Seventy-five carloads of the article are shipped out of San Diego county in good years."—Denver Republican

There seems a fair prospect that the Inyo Marble Company will supply the material for the new post-office in San Francisco. Someone made the department at Washington believe that the supply was not sufficient, but that idea will be corrected and the authorities are favorably disposed toward the Inyo product.

Allen Bragg indicates a certain displeasure regarding the credit accorded to so many other people as publishers of the Gazette by San Francisco papers, and himself being recognized as a capitalist. You should not kick, Allen. Let the other fellows carry the unenviable reputation if they wish, and you rake in the swag, if there is any, in publishing a paper in Nevada.

A carload of anchors passed through to the west yesterday morning. There was considerable speculation among the frequenters of Commercial Row as to what omen so many anchors indicated, whether it was for peace or war, but a silver party man solved the problem by intimating that they were probably emblems of "hope," sent out by McKinley in view of his wave of prosperity.

"THE BLACK FLAG."

The Reno Dramatic Club Scores a Splendid Success Last Evening.

A large audience took advantage of the popular prices at last evening's entertainment to witness the production of the thrilling five-act comedy, "The Black Flag," by the Reno Dramatic Club. The play was thoroughly staged and the cast carefully selected. Every feature of the play was interesting, and many of the situations very dramatic and exciting.

Chas. L. Knox as Harry Glyndon was excellent. His manner was easy and his lines were given in good voice and delivery.

F. P. Dann as Owen Glyndon, while maintaining his reputation as an actor of more than average ability, the character was somewhat out of his line and he has appeared better on a number of occasions.

Jack Glyndon, a flash young man, portrayed by T. E. DeLaMaty, was very good. He makes an excellent stage appearance, but maintains a little too much dignity when his manner should be careless, and is most too studied in his address for a villain.

Lazarus, a London Jew, was well presented by Prof. N. E. Wilson, both in dialect and manner, but now and then he seemed to lose his Jewish propensities and showed a close relationship to the sons of Erin, but quickly recovered himself.

Chas. H. Nash, who made his debut last evening in Scaram, is deserving of especial praise. Although lacking experience he showed himself to be a natural actor, easy in manner, good stage style and splendid voice. With a little instruction Charlie would make a comedian of no mean ability.

Bart Cahlan and Ed. Carpenter both deserve a compliment, as the characters they portrayed were well presented.

Jay Skinner a little boy with no stage experience, is a born actor. His lines were splendidly given in good voice and with an earnestness that was remarkable in one so young.

The scene after he was shot, the fall and the trembling and halting speech, indicating acute suffering, was true to life and brought tears to many eyes. Jay has a stage future if properly cultivated.

Mrs. N. E. Wilson as Naomi, as far as enunciation and voice, was excellent. Her manner was a little stiff and lacked emotional effect so necessary in the presentation of such a character as she portrayed last evening. Nevertheless she received many compliments.

Miss Marion Edmunds made a dignified elderly lady and seemed to have a thorough conception of her part.

Mrs. B. C. Shearer as Popsy Carroll maintained her character well, but sentiment or a romantic situation is not really Mrs. Shearer's line. A rough and ready and good natured portrayal is her element.

As to the costumes and make-ups of the ladies, there is room for criticism from a professional standpoint, but they will doubtless learn by experience that this is as necessary as the correct reading of their lines.

Amateurs have the fault also of too many gestures. In fact their arms are so numerous that it is hard to control them, and their hands grasp wildly in the air when there is really nothing to grasp at, but these little incidents of awkwardness are in time overcome.

Altogether the performance compared favorably with "on-the-road" shows and the Reno Dramatic Club should be encouraged by liberal patronage.

The Football Game Yesterday.

An interesting and exciting game of football took place on the University campus yesterday afternoon between the Third Eleven of the University and the High School team.

The game was close from the start to finish and displayed good football skill by both teams. The long runs and hard backing by the High School boys were special features of the game.

The tackling by Stewart and Leadbetter, the long runs by Mapes and the hard line backing by Smith are all deserving of special mention. Of the University boys, Mitchell, Seitz and Taylor distinguished themselves by good playing, the latter especially by his good, long-distance tackling.

In the first half the University scored a touch-down and made a successful goal. In the second half the High School made their first touch-down, but at such a position as to make the goal impossible, as a result of which the game ended with the score standing 6 to 4 in favor of the University.

Such contests as this among the juveniles will form the nucleus of the future team of the college, for it should be remembered that our High School is but a short step below the University and the graduates of the former institution have, so far, ranked among the leading athletes of the college.

The President's Mother Stricken With Paralysis.

Mrs. Allison McKinley, the venerable mother of the President, was stricken with paralysis sometime during Wednesday night and her death is looked for at any moment as she has not shown a single favorable symptom since the illness came upon her. She had been slightly ill for several days with la grippe, but nothing serious was anticipated.

The President was informed by telegraph of the condition of his mother and he arranged to go to her bedside at once and left Washington Thursday afternoon for Canton. Before leaving Washington he disposed of a large volume of business as his stay at Canton will depend upon his mother's condition. If a change for the better occurs he will return to Washington in time for the opening of Congress.

More Finsters on Gold Creek.

Attorney Farrington filed a complaint in the District Court this morning against the Gold Creek mining company in which he asks for a judgment in the sum of $4858.34.

One thousand dollars of this amount is claimed to be due Mr. Farrington for legal services rendered defendant between the 21st of July and the 30th day of November, 1897. The remainder consisting of the following assigned accounts: Schuyler Duryee, $1,900; George S. Brown, $1,453.34; Edward Hennessy, $250; Peter V. Barton, $250. These various amounts are claimed to be due from defendant for services performed by these parties between the 1st day of August and the 30th of November, 1897.

An attachment was issued in the suit and deputy sheriff Henley left this morning to attach all the defendant's property at Gold Creek.—Independent.

MORTALITY OF SLANG

WORDS AND PHRASES THAT RUN WILD AND ARE SHORT LIVED.

The Use of Slang as a Habit Compared to Swearing and the Intemperate Use of Intoxication—The Harm That Results From the Nonsensical Custom.

The Italian method of prefixing an a to a word to give it a damaging significance can be employed with good effect in christening that wayward and degenerate offspring of English known as slang. In its present state slang has attained to such a luxurious completeness that it warrants serious treatment. So copious and comprehensive has it become that there is hardly a human want, feeling or emotion of the heart that cannot be translated into the vernacular of the bootblack. In studying the philosophy of slang the first natural query is, How and why did it originate? To the first question one might give, with certain modifications, the same answer that would be given to the question, Why do people swear? The human animal, like a locomotive, seems to require escape valves for occasions when there is too much steam in the boiler. When a man is overflowing with admiration, anger or wonder, the ordinary adjectives do not (or he thinks they do not) meet the emergency. They do not relieve his pent up fullness any more than a sip from a dewdrop would quench a man's thirst. The natural man and the natural woman sometimes find relief under strong emotion in explosive utterances. In the case of anger the escape valve expulsive is an oath unless the man in question happens to be a gentleman and sometimes, though very rarely, when he is.

It will thus be seen that slang, being of emotional ancestry, is a first cousin to the oath, and both are used by those who mentally resemble the man whose use of intoxicating drinks has made him forget or underestimate the attractions of pure water. Slang, in sooth, is a whiskey distillation of language. It is so strong that it may be taken only very rarely with impunity, and herein lies the chief danger in its use. Not only does the slangist find ordinary English tame, but he ends in not being able to find any English at all.

Another fatal characteristic of slang is the very one which at first secures its adoption—namely, its pungency. The same law that makes quiet colors and shades wear well in the world of fabrics has its counterpart in the world of speech. We tire very speedily of a startling costume, in high colors, and just as speedily do we tire of slang, which is startling, high colored speech.

Still another reason why slang can never gain a permanent foothold in the language is its utter lack of dignity. No subject can be seriously treated in slang. Its sole function is to tickle by its pithiness or its grotesqueness. It reflects a fugitive iridescence upon current wit and humor, as like the bubble catches prismatic colors, but like the bubble, it vanishes even while you behold it. Naturally there are slang phrases of all degrees of goodness and badness, ranging from the word which is only a slight remove from a forcible but perfectly decorous adjective to slang of the most daring, deep dyed order. At one end of the scale, for instance, one might place "fotching" and at the other end its superlative "rum." Again, the injunction "play ball" is gentle and seemingly, in comparison with the brusque command "get a move on." Along certain lines the slangist seems to revel in extravagant synonyms and antonyms, especially in those expressing some infirmity in the upper story. The man who has "wheels" is also popularly known as "nutty," "cracked" or "off his trolley." Again, if he comes from the country, he is "corn raised," has "seed in his hair" or his "face doesn't fit him." "Gall," "nerve," "cheek," "sand," "brass" and "face" are also nearly synonymous terms for qualities whose universality has made them a target for popular satire. Equally prolific is the slangist in coming terms for money. "Dust," "tin," "sand," "rocks," "chink" and "spundulicks" are only a few of the words that translate "filthy lucre."

Two of the slang phrases now in gallingly frequent use are, "That's right," and "That won't cut much ice." The latter, it must be confessed, has certain cool figurative qualities which give it a saving color of grace. But most of these phrases rely chiefly upon their condensed expressiveness, which is the trademark of their American manufacture. They are but one of the many devices of the masses to compass a crosscut and avoid circumlocutions. Thus "snap" and "cinch" are time economy for a moneyed sinecure and an assured competence.

One of the surest tests of the rapid mortality of slang is the extremely painful sensation produced by hearing antiquated slang phrases used—and there are always people who are two or three or ten years behind in their use of such phrases. When other people are saying "Not on your tinfoy," the user of mildewed slang feebly ejaculates "I should smile." The piquancy and patness of certain phrases make it hard to declare that slang has no legitimate use. But concerning its misuse, there can hardly be two opinions among people whose opinions are worth anything. A careful study of the qualities of men and women who habitually interlard their remarks with slang will furnish anybody with a world of convincing conclusions in favor of pure English.—Critic.

The hagfish, or myxine, has a custom of getting inside the cod and similar fishes and entirely consuming the interior, leaving only the skin and the skeleton.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

Urilla Thomas, Plaintiff,
vs.
O. H. Ziehl, In re Ziehl and B. F. Currier, Defendants.
Under and by virtue of an order of sale and decree of foreclosure and sale issued out of the Second Judicial District Court of the State of Nevada, for Washoe county, on the 8th day of November, A. D. 1897, in the above entitled suit, wherein Urilla Thomas the above named plaintiff, obtained a judgment and decree of foreclosure and sale against O. H. Ziehl, Loretta Ziehl, his wife, and B. F. Currier, defendants, on the 8th day of November, A. D. 1897, for the sum of one thousand three hundred twenty-five and forty hundredths ($1,325.40) dollars lawful money of the United States together with costs and interest, I am commanded to sell certain lot, piece or parcel of land lying and being in the county of Washoe, State of Nevada, and particularly described as follows,
to-wit:
Commencing at N. E. corner of S. E. 1/4 of Sec. 12 in Township 19 N., R. 19 East, M. D. B.
& M. thence south and along the east line of said 40 acre tract 225 feet, thence at right angles west 120 1/2 feet, thence at right angle north to north line of said 40 acre tract 225 feet, thence east and along said north line 120 1/2 feet to beginning, containing one acre reserving one rod in width for road along east 2.5 feet; also one inch of water from Cochran Ditch, together with all and singular the tenants, hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging or in any wise appertaining.
Public notice is hereby given that on Thursday, the 2nd day of Dec., 1897,
At 1 P. M., of said day, in front of the courthouse door of the county of Washoe, I will,
in obedience of said order of sale and decree of foreclosure and sale sell the above described property, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy said judgment with interest, costs, etc., to the highest and best bidder in lawful money of the United States.
Dated November 8, 1897.
W. H. McINNIS, Sheriff.

APPOINTMENT OF ADMINISTRA-TOR.
IN DISTRICT COURT OF THE SECOND
Judicial District of the State of Nevada
for Washoe County
In the matter of the Estate of John Ing, deceased,
J. V. Peers, as Public Administrator of the County of Washoe, State of Nevada, hereby notifies all persons whom it may concern that he has been, as such officer, appointed by the court above entitled, as Administrator of the estate of John Ing, deceased, on the 8th day of November, 1897, and that all persons having claims against said estate must file the same with the Clerk of said Court within sixty days after the first publication of this notice or their claims will be denied.
Reno, Nevada, Nov. 8th 1897.

CAUGHT A WALKING FISH.

It Had No Gills, but Had Four Legs and Knew How to Use Them.

Frank Davey, the photographer, is the possessor of a very strange fish, which after having exhibited to a number of friends while still alive he put into alcohol to keep. The fish is known to some people here, but is quite rare.
Its home is in the deep water, and if the story told by the Chinaman who procured it—namely, that the catch was made in comparatively shallow water—just outside of the harbor—is to be dependent on the occurrence is indeed unusual.

It is about three inches in length when alive was of a bright yellow color with spots of black here and there. Its mouth is quite large, and the part of the body nearest is correspondingly large. It then tapers off to a small tail, but the peculiar part is that there are no gills, or what are popularly known as such. Where these should be the skin is just as it is all over the body. At a distance of about half an inch and protruding from the belly near the central part are what might be called arms or legs. They are jointed and have sometimes very fine claws. These, together with another pair farther anterior, the fish, when alive, used to walk about with on the bottom of the jar in which it was contained.

It would show fight instantly when approached and gave every sign of being endued with the spirit of the evil one, bristling up its fins, snapping its sharp teeth, clorating a sharp, knife-like appendage on the top of its nose and sending two currents of water from holes or false gills just back of the large, annular appendages mentioned above.

When the fish was killed and placed in alcohol, the bright yellow disappeared entirely and left in its place a white color.—Pacific Commercial Advertiser.

WAIL OF A FLAT DWELLER.

Mr. Werkenday's Remarks on New York Apartment Bathrooms.

"A long and bitter experience in apartments forces me to observe," said Mr. Werkenday, shivering as he hopped on the oilcloth of the bathroom with his bare feet, "that the architects who plan the ordinary flat of commerce do not bathe. I don't judge this from their appearance, because they are a particularly clean and nice lot of men. But I cannot believe that any one with the least respect for the importance of the bathroom could treat it with such architectural stopfatherliness.

"It always is shoved away in a dark corner as far from the bedrooms and as near the parlor or dining room as possible. It always is dark and ventilated by an airshaft up which there blows perpetually a dismal draft that has something on its mind and groans about it all the time. It ought to have something on its mind, for it is a sure killer. Then, of course, the bathroom, being the only place in the house where one takes off all his clothes and gets wet all over, is the place which most frequently has no heating appliances.

"Again, why do so many architects build the washstand in the hallway instead of in the bathroom, where it belongs? I don't know whether they think that a man enjoys taking his bath in sections or whether they act on the theory that he ought to take it gradually, preparing himself for the bathtub by degrees.

"I asked an architect once why he did it. 'Well,' said he, 'we hardly ever do differently except in private houses.'

"Has only the privateer, then, as the Europeans call him, the right to take a complete bath in one room, or has co-location produced a species of flatters who naturally are incapable of doing it?

"I suppose that the smallness of bathtubs is explained by the lack of room.
Of course every fashionable bathtub is too small for any one except an infant, and I have noticed, not without some awe, that in each new flat into which we move the bathtub is smaller than it was in the one preceding. As I am growing stouter each year, a genuine misfortune for one whose finances make a third or fourth bath necessary, I am sure that if we make two or three more 'moves' we will, on this scale of bathtub decrease, find a bathtub into which I will not be able to get at all."—New York Press.

A TEST FOR HORSEFLESH.

But Even a Chemist Cannot Always Recognize It.

"People are apt to jump at conclusions," said a chemist in speaking of the latest notable murder case. "Chemistry is a very nice science, but it is possible to make some bad blunders in applying it to law and evidence. There are certain things you can prove by it if you are sure of your premises and certain other things that you cannot.
This thing of trying to prove a good deal by chemistry calls to mind the beef extract case that gave a packer in this city considerable uneasiness.

"Somebody got hold of his beef extract and claimed that it was made from horseflesh, and it was proved by analysis—that is, to the satisfaction of the man that analyzed it. The ordinary test for horseflesh, according to the authorities, is glycogen. This is a substance that, speaking in a general way, is found in horseflesh, but does not exist in beef, and it was shown that this particular extract contained glycogen.

"The packer came to us in some distress of mind for a way out of the difficulty. He said his extract was made of nothing but beef, and he wanted us to help him prove it, and we did so to his relief and to the satisfaction of the health officers. We demonstrated that, while an ordinary piece of beef did not contain glycogen, it existed in the heart, liver and blood of cattle, and some of each of these might have entered into the making of the beef extract. The result was that the chemist who had arrived at such sweeping conclusions from the first test had to back down from his position."—Chicago Times-Herald.

The New Ribbons.

The new ribbons are very attractive and are evidently going to be more than ever a feature of dress-making. There are gorgeous plaids and the most fascinating array of stripes, up and down and across in the Roman fashion. Three or four shades of one color are striped together, with possibly a velvet stripe on one edge, and then again there are many stripes of contrasting colors blending together with a bright, pretty effect.
Oriental brocaded ribbons add to the variety, and so do glace ribbons with fancy borders. There are velvet ribbons with the ribs running crosswise, some in lovely colors, the newest being a clear shade of purple blue.

Detailed.

"When is Professor Frisby going on his expedition to the north pole?"
"I can't say. It has been indefinitely postponed. The professor isn't in condition for the undertaking."
"What is the trouble?"
"He took a drink of ice water and it made him sick."—Washington Star.

By the old Saxon law a maiden and a widow were of different value. The latter could be bought for one-half the sum which the guardian of maid was entitled to demand. A man, therefore, who could not afford to buy a maiden might perhaps be able to purchase a widow.

have done best are allowed to smoke cigars while pursuing their lessons.
